Lynchburg boasts an extensive trails system that connects midtown to the Blackwater Creek Bikeway and the Point of Honor Trail via the Kemper Station Trail. Many of our trails run through the Blackwater Creek Natural Area (BWCNA), a linear greenway which has over 300 acres of forested terrain right in the heart of Lynchburg.

It's easy to access the trails in Lynchburg. We have both small neighborhood and larger public trail entrances that offer parking and other amenities. Trailheads to the Blackwater Creek Bikeway that have public parking are found at the Ed Page entrance, the East Randolph Place entrance, and the Hollins Mill entrance. Year-round restrooms
